A Pair of Batters A very good story could have been written today by some stars in fact it would have been written. I say story rather than stories, actually, for the theme of what would have been written would have been the same. Unfortunately the ideas which had been forming in the minds of these writers would have been once locally true. That is because very Carl Hubbell, a six-foot left hander and Mel Harder, a six-foot right hander, split the cleverly concocted coup.

One of the outstanding events in Chatham's 1934 sport menu will be held at Athletic Park tomorrow afternoon when the Chatham Cricket Club, oldest sport organization in the Middle City, entertains Trinity College School of Port Hope. A brilliant young eleven, the Trinity players have created an enviable record for themselves on their tour of the western portion of the province and should be a big drawing card in Chatham.

Advice Hinted By Former Big League Player

The Stars were "on" last night as they proudly welcomed the new season. Chase was having a masterful ball all evening and when he wanted to bear down the Duns were graciously helpful.
